THE RETICENCE OF GENERAL GRANT. Several of our contemporaries, piqued by the reticence of General Grant, are ransacking literature for parallels to him. The New York World compares him to Ulysses: the New York Times compares him to Harpocrates, the Egyptian God of Silence; and our neighbor of the Courier, less ambitious but more felicitous than either, compares him to Tom Pipes iu Smollett's l'eregrine Pickle. The parallel which we shall propose is even less ambinot it is more felicitous we will not say.

This was his answer:

"Sir: I thank you for your valuable present, for such I must call it since I cannot consider it a reward for my slight tronble. I congratulate you now your marriage with the most lovely of your country women. It is true a leg is much to give even for a beantiful, virtuous, and to bring with him everything accessary for an ampniation.

Thevenet was known at that time far and wide as the most skillful mar in his profession. It would have even cothing strange if he had been called across the channel to England for the sake of his professional services, but stil he wondered at this letter. Time, honr, place, were all specified with the greatest exactness when and where be was expected; but, as we have said, the note had no signature. It has been considered that the loss of a fang that at nine of clock the next morning, a carriage would stop as his nouse, to the little toe too much, if you will consider the sar rifice of the greats the present, for such I must call it. "Who has sent for me?" he asked as he got in.

"I don't know," answered the driver, "and I don't care."

"A pleasant beginning," thought Thevenet.

The carriage stopped at last at the country honse which had been described in the letter. "Who lives here?" asked Thorenet as be got on.

The driver gave the same answer as before and Therenet polynomy and the server their beauty and their virtness as more their objunious. Old Horton thereby attempted to sunb Busteed; and no doubt with the connivance of Swayne, who has always been jealons of the superior abilities of the Judge. He went so far as to induce buck-freegory to deny to Busteed a seat in the Gregory to deny to Busteed a seat in the Republican Convention. About this time, Swayne also, less bo d than his tool Horton, speech, and showed the Judge up as an abler man than the stupid fourth-rate law-lion's belly being full of honey. The Judge bided his time. Swayne and Horton chuckled, and thought they had him down, with their thumbe gouging his eyes.

But the Judge has arisen with his usual vivacity, and the other day made old Horton stand up before him for two mortal honrs, read him a long address upon the infamons nature of his crime in bar shing our one-legged colored friend. Hoa. Archie Johnson, from the city of Mobile, and finished by fining him two hundred and fifty dollars in legal currency. Thus has Horton paid for that little note of five lines to the radical journal at the rate of fity dollars a line! Hereafter the old rascal will curtail his correspondence. Swayne must come next! He anabbed Busteed is not the man to remain sunbbed. Having shown his contempt for military arrogance in the person of Mayor Horton, the deputy of Swayne, it remains for the Judge now to show his contempt of Swayne. Cannot a writ of habeas corpus be asked for against Swayne in some case? We beg the lawyers to hunt up a case and give Busteed an opportunity to serve Swayne as he has just served Horton—to vindicate the ermine and vinit etributive justice upon military men who dare to snub the law!—Montgomery Mail.

SKATING COSTUMES.—In the matter o skating dresses the fashion magazines will give abondart hints, and the ladies will consult their own tastes as to what they should wear. Light or brilliant colthey should wear. Light or brilliant colors wil, of course, prevail, and many-hand skirts, beant in feathers, bright furs and gay ribbons will mingle in the masea of the skaters; but it may perhaps be well to suggest that comfort and health, as well as appearance, should be considered. Skating is so exhibitant ug an exercise, it so quickens the pulse and warma the blood, that any one who, on retiring from the lake, neglects to take the most care-son many have become prejudiced against skating. White skating, ladies and gentlemen should tree themselves as much as possible from burdensome clothing; but immediately upon stopping, thick and warm cloaks, furs or overcoats should be put on. No one should stand on the ice or sit down by the side of the pond for any length of time while warm. Neither should ladies unaccustomed to the exercise remain too long on the ice. Skate a little every day; for too much skating on one day insures illness the next. The disregard of these simple suggestions has been the canse of a great amount of sickness since skating became an almost mirversal recreation. But skating rightly enjoyed brings health, strength, beauty, and good spirits.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE IN THE UNITED STATES—A REMARKABLE RECORD.—Life Insurance, in one form or another, has been practised for hundreds of years. Yet, in this country, the oldest life companies date back scarce thirty years, and only within the last can venez was life. panies dete hack scarce thirty years, and only within the last ten years may life insurance be said to have become "popular, in America. Accident Insurance is of more recent date. The first company established for that specific branch of underwriting was organized in London, highland, in the year 1818, and it is now the leading accident company in Great livitain.

The first successful accident insurance company in this country was projected by our energetic townsman, James G. Batterson. With what enterprise and vigor the affairs of the company have been pashed, the extensive business, numerous agencies, and wide reputation of the "Travilers" of Hartford" attest. Being the pioneer company, it had all the difficulties to combat belonging to an untried experiment in a novel field of underwriting; a plan of business to be perfected. experiment in a novel field of underwriting; a plan of business to be perfected,

OMMINTS 170N THE 151 TION OF THE 18A D JULY OF THE LOT SVILLE CITY (GILL)

On Saturday there appeared in the city papers a set of resolutions, directed to the Legislature of Kentucky, purporting to come from the grand jury of the Louis ville City Court. This is not the first i me these degenerate days, considering the moralized state of society, and the pre-ection some have for arbitrary in litary gotten that during the late rehellion, good ground for suspicion, has caused the confiscation of many valuable estates, thereby reducing many good citizens to the most alject poverty. Upon what were considered good grounds of suspicion by the military suthorities during the late war, many of our best citizens were ten away from their families and impliesued in loathsome dangeous, and there murdered by their cruel and inhuman keepers. Is there oue man in tenthousund that did not condemn all military orders based upon suspicion? Is tary orders based upon suspicion? Is there one man in a hundred thousand that lived, shall be overturned by a set of reso-lutions adopted by a grand jury empan-eled and clurged to cuquire into, and true presentments make, of all penal offences

The third resolution says, "That we scientally profest against liceusing houses of ill-fame and gambling establishments, being wholly unwilling to sell for n trifling revenue, the principles, that the keeping of such establishments is wrongful and in I do not deem it necessary for the pur

"I do not doem it necessary for the purpose for which I started out, to say auything as to the moral effect of the licensing of such houses as the third resolution speaks of. But it may not be amiss to suggest an idea to the wise acres of this resolution. In Puris, France, and many other large eties, the license system provails as to houses of ill-fame. When the proposition was first made the public journals all opposed the ides; the consequence was that the law-makers voted it down. But in a little while the physicians and scientific men of Paris advocated the license system, and presented such a theory that it was adopt-tem do not disparge those that advocated, and adopted it.

As to licensing gambling houses, it seems to me that no rational man would for a moment oppose it. Gambling will go on. It interdicted by lnw, houses will be set up in unfrequented places, and none will know of their existence but the gamblers, and their victims. The bisiness man who has a clerk that abstracts money from him, and resorts to sceret places to gamble, will have but ltrile chance to find out his clerk's dishonesty.

The young man who becomes infatuated with gaming will never be admonished by his friends and relations, for his vice and his haunts will be known only to those who frequent such places. Make such places public; allow every one the privilege of entering; let all that go know that they are liable to be seen by persons who do not gamble but who may visit a gambling house to ree who does gamble.

gambing house to see who does gamble.

I will say nothing of the revenue that would arise from such a law, as to the amount, I will not estimate it. Those that make our laws should not be governed by the idea of money alone, they should be controlled by higher considerations.

I know that many who believe that the license system is proper could not be induced to vote for it, from the fact that they believe that public opinion is against it. It lacks but moral courage to pass the license law. I wish to say a word as to.

The negroes then marched on, still firing at intervals, and formed the nucleus of n radical political assemblage, within a short distance of headquarters. At this meeting several incendiary speeches were delivered. A negro said: "The radicals could whip the Conservatives at the ballot hox or with the musket." Babour, of the Iureau, Secretary of Swayne's late menagerie, is reported to have said, in his speech to the negroes: "That we would soon have in this State an armed militia which would keep the white men in subjection to radical authority." Here the excitement and mean whisky ran so high that the negro, John Belser, flourished a loaded revolverover his head, saying, "come on, rebels!" BECEIPTS OF INTERNAL REVENUE Contributions for Relief of the Poor.

AN IMPORTANT MILITARY ORDER.

Washington, Dec 28.
The receipts of internal revenue from the 12th of December to this morning, amount to $13,140,000, and the total receipts since July lest are $01,251,000.
Liberal subscriptions have been made by the citizens of Washington for the reliet of the poor. General Grant has directed to be turned over for distribution smeng them, about firty cords of remse lumber, to be used as fuel.

Among these at the funeral to-day of the late Gen, Griffin were Gens, Grant, Sherman and other military officers of prominence.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.

The Herald's special says reports of Cabitet charges are circulating again. One rom a seemingly reliable source says that Secretary McCulloch will send in his resignation in a few days, and that the President will nominate as his successor Charles Francis Adams, one present Minister to Great Britain, and that Mr. McCulloch will then be nominated to fill the vacancy at the court of St. James. It is understood the order substituting Mesde for Pope will be issued on Saturday.

Gen. Howard thinks Congress will have to provide relief for the destitute at the South. A proposition is made to lave a Government loan of twenty-five or twenty-six millions at six per cent, secured by a lien on property and crops. General Howard does not approve of this, but favors a distribution of food, the cost to be recured by a lien on crops. but favors a distribution of food, the cost to be recured by a lien on crops.

The World's special says: Gen. Gillem, who is here under Gen. Ord's order, seeking relief for Southern destitution, had another interview with Gen. Grant to-day. In his report, General Gillem shows that three-fifths of the freed men will be thrown ont of employment by the fallows of the planters to plant cotton.

The Democrata are making elaborate preparations to celebrate the 8th of January here. Prominent speakers have been invited from all parts of the country. By con mand of General Grant.
